Introduction

The spirit of our school mission and the guidelines established in our Behaviour Policy, as well as the unwritten rules of civilized behaviour, all dictate that there should be no place in school for bullying. All our actions and teaching should reinforce the principles of thought and consideration of others; tolerance; equality of opportunity; and the recognition and acceptance of others. It is readily recognized, however, that in any community, human nature is such that there are likely to be times when these principles are breached. Universal and constant vigilance are necessary from all staff so that potential bullying is noticed and acted upon immediately.

Aims and Objectives

This policy aims to produce a consistent school response to any bullying incidents that may occur

The aims of the policy are:

- to ensure that our children are provided with a safe and secure learning environment
- to ensure that all children are aware of the psychological damage that bullying can inflict on others
- to ensure that staff raise awareness amongst our children that bullying, threats and violence are not acceptable in society and in our school community
- to support children who are being bullied and to help them feel safe again, to rebuild their confidence and self esteem

Definitions

Bullying is behaviour by an individual or group, usually repeated over time, that intentionally hurts another individual or group, either physically or emotionally. It has serious consequences that can be physical (e.g. bruises, scratches), emotional (e.g. misery, despair) or psychological (e.g. depression or mental breakdown).

Bullying can take many forms (for instance, cyberbullying via text messages, social websites or the internet), and is often motivated by prejudice against particular groups, for example on grounds of race, religion, gender, or sexual orientation

Bullying occurs when, repeatedly, someone is intentionally made to feel physically or mentally injured.

Procedures

- Treat all reports seriously and sympathetically.
- Act straight away.
- Inform other staff, ensure the incident is documented.
- Remain totally objective and helpful. Take reports from both parties.
- If the incident is minor and can be handled on the spot, do so, discussing the implications with all parties.
- Cyber bullying: where incidents of cyber bullying are reported the school will intervene and investigate and deal with the alleged incident.
- If a serious incident occurs the school counsellor will be told of the incident and will talk to those involved.
- If the incident is major, inform your line manager. Parents should be contacted.
- Disciplinary action, in line with the school's range of sanctions, will be taken where appropriate. Such action may include letters, meetings with parents, internal suspension or the child leaving the school in the following academic year. Alternatively, parents may be asked to remove their child from the school.

Prevention

- Make it clear to pupils, and parents that bullying is unacceptable. In our actions and words we must show that we care and that we listen to and act upon all complaints.
- Make sure standards of patrolling and supervision out of classrooms are maintained.
- Establish potential "danger areas" and patrol them frequently.
- Identify potential bullies and victims — monitor them.
- Ensure pupils know staff are available and accessible at any time. Keep the problem foremost in students' minds
- Keep a full record of incidents, discussions and resolutions. This should include recording of the person bullied as well as the bully.

Do not

- Be overly protective.
 - Be unduly biased.
 - Keep the whole incident a secret.

Always Take Action. Always Report

Role of the Teachers

Teachers will always listen to pupils who need to report an incident of unacceptable behaviour.

Teachers will make every effort to supervise pupils carefully especially the ones who were involved in bullying incidents in the past or are new to school.

Teachers will be consistent when dealing with instances of bullying and will use the school's procedures to log and deal with any incidences they are aware of.

Teachers will work with those involved in bullying, to try to find strategies for them both to use until the conflict is resolved.

The Role of the School Counsellor

The school counsellor may be one of the professionals involved in acknowledging the bullying situation and the individuals who are part of it. Some private conversations can be conducted individually with the parties involved, and their parents. Also, the school counsellor may choose to conduct individual/group role playing of non-aggressive behaviour with those demonstrating bullying behaviour and assertive behaviour with the bystanders and those suffering from bullying. Teachers and parents may consult with the school counsellor in order to obtain guidelines for specific situations.

Ways of educating about bullying through the curriculum

The curriculum of the school is a medium to raise awareness of the nature and causes of bullying and how it impacts on individuals and communities. Assemblies, personal, social and health Education, projects, stories, literature, current affairs, class or group social awareness initiatives such as campaigns, focus days/weeks and specialist lessons can also have a focus on anti-bullying. The class representatives may also raise anti-bullying issues/concerns at the student council. It is important that bullying is addressed directly in the school and proactively throughout the school's curriculum. All class teachers and specialists need to work on this area of pastoral care.

A buddy system and the use of buddies in the playground is a proactive way of ensuring that there is a positive climate in the school and that bullying issues are minimalized. All new children have access to a buddy support system in the school as part of our pastoral care provision.

Monitoring, Evaluation and Review

In the first instance, the heads of section and the school counsellor will be responsible for the monitoring and review of this policy on an annual basis, though; any deficiencies or weaknesses in the policy will be remedied without delay.

Throughout the year in Board, SLT, Whole Staff, Section Meetings and INSET, Child Protection and Anti-Bullying Policies and Procedures are discussed and reviewed.
